Energy Tips

Plug home electronics, such as TVs and DVD players, in to power strips; then turn the power strips off when the equipment is not in use -- TVs and DVDs in standby mode still use several watts of power. Check for ENERGY STAR label on light bulbs, home appliances and other products. ENERGY STAR products meet strict efficiency guidelines set by the U.S. Environmental Protection Agency and the U.S.Department of Energy.
In 1974, the first federal child protection legislation, the Child Abuse Prevention and Treatment Act was enacted. During the ensuing forty years, the original legislation has been amended many times as the nation’s awareness of the perils of child abuse became more and more evident. In 1983, in recognition of the importance of protecting our children, April was proclaimed National Child Abuse Prevention Month.

2016's Child Abuse Prevention Month theme:

Protect our Children: Supervised, Safe and Sound

This theme recognizes the shifting focus from merely reporting child abuse and neglect to the pro-active, positive message of supporting families and strengthening communities. Education is the key to eliminating child abuse from our Marine Community and in strengthening our Marine families. Whereas Leadership can direct and encourage proper care of our children, it is everyone's responsibility to ensure our children's safety and well-being. The rise of child neglect is being seen across all branches of service. Neglect situations such as children not being supervised around large bodies of water, caretakers being distracted by video games, caretakers leaving children in a car, being under the influence of drugs/alcohol, have become more prevalent. As you all know, many of our families may not even realize that these situations are neglectful. To protect our children, we must be educated on warning signs and risk factors so that we can stop child abuse before it happens. I encourage you to reach out to parents under stress, to make sure your child is in a safe place when you are under stress, and to reach out to an unsupervised child to offer assistance or to call a neighbor or friend for support.

During this National Child Abuse Prevention Month, it is time to recognize that each of us aboard Marine Corps Logistics Base, Barstow, must play an important part in promoting the social and emotional well-being of the children and families. By being proactive and taking the extra step to offer assistance, to lend a helping hand or a listening ear, you can be the catalyst for the change we need to prevent harm or neglect to our children. I challenge everyone in our Marine Community to become more aware of child abuse prevention and consider helping parents raise their children in a safe, nurturing environment.

I encourage and invite you all to embrace and live by the theme “Protect our Children: Supervised, Safe and Sound”. Be the proactive change we need to eliminate child maltreatment from our Community. During the April there are numerous planned activities aboard Marine Corps Logistics Base Barstow. I urge all of you to attend and listen to our guest speaker, Mrs. Dawn Herring, during our Child Abuse Prevention training session held at the General James L. Day Center, April 6, 2016. Additionally, we will host the 2nd Annual KidFest at Sorensen Field, April 27, 2016. For more Child Abuse Prevention education activities, please contact Ms. Angelica Mora, our Victim Advocate at (760) 577-6533.

Sexual Assault Awareness and Prevention Month

Eliminate Sexual Assault: Know your Part. Do Your Part.
April 2016

Sexual Assault Awareness and Prevention Month is recognized across the country by both civilian and military communities. This month offers a unique opportunity to build on the current push to eliminate sexual assault and ensure all Service members are in a command climate where they are treated with dignity and respect.

This April marks the twelfth annual Sexual Assault Awareness and Prevention Month by continuing the ongoing theme of “Eliminate Sexual Assault: Know your part. Do your part”. Every Service member, within this command, must know, understand and adhere to our core values and standards of behavior in order to eliminate sexual assault and other inappropriate behavior. We must continue to strive for an environment where professional values, team commitment, and respect define how we treat one another at every level throughout this command, in the workplace and during off duty hours.

Know Your Part: Each Service member throughout this command has a unique role in preventing and responding to sexual assault. We must recognize our part in stopping this crime, starting with our own awareness and knowing when and where to intervene. Understanding bystander intervention is vital in helping to identify and stop unsafe behavior. Each day we can take steps to foster a culture of dignity and respect.

Do Your Part: We have to act! If we see a crime or inappropriate behavior unfolding, we must take the necessary steps to prevent it. We need to add our voice to the call to end this crime. In order to prevent sexual assault, we must be committed to advancing an environment where sexist behaviors, sexual harassment, and sexual assault are not tolerated, condoned or ignored. Sexual assault is not only inappropriate behavior, it is criminal behavior.

Consider participating in activities planned during April, to generate maximum awareness for Sexual Assault Prevention and Response Efforts. I encourage each of you to stop by and visit our information booth at the Marine Corps Exchange on March 9th and 23rd and to sign up for the 3rd annual No More 5K run aboard the installation.

Sexual assault can occur anywhere, any time and to anyone. Living up to our values and knowing our part and doing our part to prevent sexual assault, requires us to remain committed to preventing it. By sustaining the right command climate, ensuring leadership support, and empowering Service members to safely intervene, we can create the environment to eliminate sexual assault.

The 50th Commemoration of the Vietnam War held at the National Training Center at Ft. Irwin was again a big hit in the welcoming home of Vietnam Veterans. There was a parade with current service members, to include MCLB Barstow Marines, and their families lined up along the parade route to officially welcome these past heroes home. Ft. Irwin also hosted a luncheon with author Joe Galloway on hand as the guest speaker, and later rocked with actor/musician Gary Sinise and the Lt. Dan Band.
